Enjoy Living in Jacksonville, Florida

Every School. Every Classroom. Every Student. Every Day.

As the largest (840 square miles) city in the continental U.S., Jacksonville is home to approximately 850,000 residents. Situated where the Atlantic Ocean and the St. John's River meet Jacksonville's extensive waterways support two United States Navy bases, Florida's largest seaport, Jax Port, and 1,100 miles of shoreline for relaxation and fun.

Jacksonville's convenient location, mild climate, and reasonable cost of living provides residents an atmosphere that yields a quality life. The city has distinguished itself as one of the nation's most dynamic and progressive cities. Its growing population, strong economy, diverse culture, natural resources and abundant recreational opportunities make Jacksonville the perfect place to live.

"I am glad I decided to moved to Jacksonville. My husband and I enjoy going to various places and events around town. As a teacher, I work with a diverse group of educators who believe that all students can learn. There are opportunities for growth through various professional development classes."

-Madge Harris-Rowland, Kindergarten Teacher, Jacksonville Heights Elementary

The abundant waterways, parks and ecological preserves in Jacksonville provide unlimited opportunities to escape to nature's playground. One of Jacksonville's many natural assets is that it is home to the largest urban park systems in the United States. All this natural beauty is surrounded by a modern and vibrant city that bustles with shops, restaurants, world-class museums, and sporting and entertainment venues for residents of all ages.

With more than 10 colleges and universities in the region including Jacksonville University, Edward Waters College, and the University of North Florida, Jacksonville is a great place to learn and grow. In addition to the many educational institutions, Jacksonville is one of the Top 20 cities for arts and culture in the nation.
